1 April 2011

• CHRIS BLISS

Rawlinson & Hunter is delighted to announce the appointment of Chris Bliss as our senior partner. Chris will take up the post on 1 April 2011.

Chris, who is 53, joined Rawlinson & Hunter in 1984 and has been a partner with the firm since 1988. He advises a broad base of clients encompassing retail, trading and investment companies, professional partnerships, not-for-profit entities and certain high profile sports personalities. He acts as an adviser to several substantial family groups and has a particular interest in the entertainment and motor sport sectors.

He will take over as senior partner from Philip Prettejohn who steps down on 31 March 2011. Philip, a partner with Rawlinson & Hunter for thirty-three years, will continue as a partner with the firm.

Chris, together with his fellow partners and staff, looks forward to building on the success achieved by his predecessors and continuing the high standards of service and technical excellence delivered over many years.
