

RAWLINSON & HUNTER ANNOUNCES PROMOTIONS

Rawlinson & Hunter has the pleasure in announcing the promotions of Alex Temlett to Partner and of Mark Shaw, Catherine Thompson and Tracy Underwood to Director, with effect from 1 April 2018.

Alex Temlett (Corporate Services)

Alex, who is both a Chartered Accountant and Chartered Tax Adviser, has served as a Director in our Corporate Services team for several years since returning from his secondment to our BVI office. His promotion to Partner recognises his wide technical abilities and outstanding client handling skills.

Alex's skillset is broad and as Partner he will be providing a general assurance and tax advisory service to his corporate and private clients across a wide range of sectors, drawing on his own expertise and relevant support from across the firm. Aside from this he will in particular be focusing on continuing to grow our offerings in forensic accounting, valuations (including expert witness engagements) and transaction support services.

Mark Shaw (Trust & Wealth Services)

Mark's promotion recognises his exceptional contribution to the Wealth Reporting Service since joining the firm three years ago. During this time, the team has grown dramatically and invested heavily in information technology solutions enabling us to offer a comprehensive, highly valuable and efficient service to our clients. This is due, in no small part, to Mark's knowledge in this area, his commercial understanding of client needs and his interaction with our in house development team. As Director, Mark will continue to oversee the developments in this area and will take on an even more active role in delivery of the services to our clients.

NEWS RELEASE

April 2018

Catherine Thompson (Corporate Services)

Catherine has been with the firm for over ten years joining us initially as a Team Leader in our Corporate Services Department. Catherine is dual qualified as a Chartered Accountant and Chartered Tax Adviser. Whilst increasingly specialising in VAT and indirect taxes, Catherine has a broad range of skills in dealing with clients' requirements for outsourced financial support and, alongside Craig Davies, heads up delivery of our VAT, tax and accounting services for Art sector clients. This promotion recognises Catherine's contribution to the ongoing growth and development of the Corporate Services team and the very important technical, management and client handling roles that she plays.

Tracy Underwood (Private Client Tax)

Tracy is a private client tax specialist who has been with the firm for 27 years. She enjoys advising clients on a broad range of personal tax issues for both UK resident and non-UK resident individuals as well as non-UK domiciled individuals and non-resident trustees. She has considerable experience in dealing with HMRC enquiries and bringing them to a successful conclusion, as well as providing support to her clients in the filing of their complex tax returns. She has developed exceptionally strong relationships with her clients where she is very often the first port of call for them. Having joined the firm in 1990 as a newly qualified Chartered Tax Adviser, Tracy married and initially continued her career with the firm on a part-time basis while she raised her family. She considers that the firm was innovative in the early introduction of flexible working and credits the firm's forward thinking approach as a material factor in their retention of key personnel, which is fundamentally important for continuity in the delivery of the high level of client service on which the firm's reputation rests. Tracy will continue to take on a more client facing role and retain her current involvement in continuously improving our internal processes.

Rawlinson & Hunter managing partner, Mark Harris, said, "We are very excited to announce all of these much deserved promotions. We have an excellent track record of progressing our talented staff through to Director and Partner with Alex the latest in a long line of those who have come fully through the ranks. We have exceptionally talented people throughout the firm and continue to invest in them as individuals, the information technology solutions they can deploy for clients and development of an ever expanding array of service lines in which our people are integral to delivering to the exacting standards our history demands."
